Burt pleads guilty to rape, sodomy charges

Michael Burt appeared in handcuffs in Casey Circuit Court on Monday to plead guilty to numerous sex charges.

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A Casey County man who had previously pleaded not guilty to multiple sex charges has now pleaded guilty to those charges in court.

Michael Burt, 62, an inmate in the Casey County Detention Center, accepted the plea deal of 10 years in prison from Commonwealth's Attorney Brian Wright.

Standing handcuffed in a light blue jail jumpsuit before Special Judge Doughlas George on Monday in Casey Circuit Court, Burt responded quietly to Judge George's questions about changing his plea.

Judge George, reading from the plea agreement, said that Burt had agreed to a sentence of five years in prison on each of the 10 counts of third-degree rape, to run concurrently.

On the 20 counts of third-degree sodomy, Burt had also accepted a sentence of five years in prison on each of the counts, to run concurrently.

The agreement is for the two sentences to run consecutively, for a total of 10 years in prison.

Wright opposes probation and Burt must register with the Kentucky Sex Offender Registry. Final sentencing is set for Oct. 22.

Burt, a former employee of the Galilean Home, was arrested on June 6 at 4:18 p.m. at his home at 506 Ridgefield Drive, Liberty, by KSP Trooper Ricky Brooks and charged with 10 counts of first-degree rape, incapable of consent-physically helpless, and 20 counts of first-degree sodomy, incapable of consent-physically helpless-with serious physical injury, court records show.

Brooks was acting on a complaint from the Green County Department of Social Services office that someone fondled mental retardation residents at the Galilean Home.

After interviewing three residents at the home, one admitted to having sex with Burt multiple times, court records show.

Burt then admitted to Brooks having what he said was "consensual sex" with an adult female — a special needs resident at the Galilean Home — more than 10 times from June 2011 to May 2012.

Jerry Tucker, who founded the Galilean Home with his late wife Sandy in 1986, said that Burt was fired in May for making suggestive remarks to female residents.

Although he had worked at the facility for 22 years, Burt was working a limited schedule after having undergone open heart surgery in January, Tucker said.

Creativity is a 'snap' for Liberty woman

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

Stacey Beeler is always thinking about something creative. So, two years ago she designed a girl's T-shirt with a little girl on the front wearing a dress.

Then it dawned on her that this might be a product girls would be interested in as a "collectible fashion" statement.

Beeler, who grew up in Liberty and is president of Monticello Bank in Liberty, began selling the shirts at the 2010 Apple Festival. But something nagged her about the shirt and changing the design.

"I wanted to figure out a way to change her clothes and it took me a year to find a way to do it," she said.

And then, Beeler had a "voila" moment when she realized the answer to her dilemma was snaps.

"I designed a shirt with a girl without a costume on the front and then I put snaps on the T shirt where someone could buy a basic shirt and then change the outfit the girl on the front of the shirt wears," she said.

Out of that moment was born the Snap Dolls line of girls' clothing that Beeler is hopefully going to design, market and manufacture in Liberty.

Beeler credits her mother, Dale Hoskins, with creating many of the designs for the 70 or so outfits that can be snapped onto the front of the shirts, which will sell for around $30, which includes one outfit.

Fall and spring lines of outfits have been designed, with about 35 in each line.

The designs, for girls ages 4-9, include sports themes such as a soccer outfit, a cowgirl outfit, business attire, ballerina, or an astronaut.

Beeler has tested Snap Dolls and now has accounts in nine states. But to expand the business nation wide, she realized she needed help.

"I pitched my idea to Dean Harvey at the University of Kentucky and he pitched it to Anne Kastner, and I got in touch with her," Beeler said.

Kastner, who lives in the Bay area of San Francisco, has an extensive background in the retail clothing line having worked with the Levis/Dockers brand and also with the Williams-Sonoma Co., a top quality cookware company.

In addition, Beeler met this week with other members of the Snap Dolls management team — Kiki Coles, who worked with Macy's and Williams-Sonoma, Lee Ann Groshong, who worked with Levi's children's clothing, and Marian Keyes, who had a background with Nike and in sales.

Kastner said that for now, the team is still in the building mode in trying to grow the brand and also to launch a Web site.

Once the Web site is up and running, Coles said that it will feature an interactive game where girls can bring their dolls to life by dressing them in virtual outfits, complete with make-up.

Beeler said that once production starts later this fall, the business should initially employ eight to 10 people.

Adair attorney nominated for Commonwealth's Attorney position

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

An Adair County attorney has been nominated to be placed on the Nov. 6 ballot to run for Commonwealth's Attorney for Casey and Adair County.

The vacancy in the 29th Judicial District came about as a result of Casey County Commonwealth's Attorney Brian Wright's withdrawal from the election to run for the Circuit Court Judge's Seat that was held by Judge James G. Weddle, who died in April.

Columbia Attorney Gail Williams' nomination came Monday night from the members of the Executive Committees of the Republican Party for Casey and Adair counties.

The deadline to register for the Commonwealth's Attorney race is today at 4 p.m. As of presstime on Tuesday at noon, Williams was the only one to register for the position.

"Gail Williams was the only person who met the qualifications for a nominee from both counties," said Casey County Republican Party Chairman William Wethington.

Early morning fire destroys 100-year-old house

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A home that's been a landmark on South U.S. 127 in Liberty was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning.

Firefighters were alerted to the blaze in the century old wooden home on the T.M. Weddle farm about 3:30 a.m.

Jeff Owens, Chief of the Dunnville Fire Department, said that the house was fully engulfed with flames when he arrived.

"It was pretty much gone by the time we got there," he said, adding the cause of the fire is undetermined.

Betty Lou Weddle, wife of T.M., said that she was extremely saddened that the house, empty for some time, was gone.

"I spent too many happy hours playing down there as a child. I can't look at it," she said, adding the farm and house have been in the Weddle family since 1944.

Dunnville firefighters were assisted by Liberty, Clementsville, Brush Creek, Poplar Springs, and Evona fire departments. Firefighters were on the scene about two hours and no one was hurt in the incident.

A 100-year-old house located on U.S. 127 South belonging to T.M. Weddle was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning.

Unique tree search continues

Amanda COLE
Staff Writer

In last week's column, I mentioned that I wanted to find and photograph a tree that I saw on the Aug. 5, 1992 front cover of The Casey County News as part of a new photo series.

Last Wednesday I began the wild goose chase to hunt down the tree that was said to be off Gum Lick Road on property owned by a Ray Quaak of Louisville.

I started the search in the deeds room at the old courthouse. I had to explain my wild quest for a tree and had to reassure people that I wasn't playing a trick — I was genuinely searching for someone with the last name "Quaak."

It turns out the correct spelling of his name is Quaack, but that didn't really help me. I was able to find out that he sold the land to a couple from California in 1997. I didn't know how to contact them so I made a trip to the PVA office... still no luck. Finally, I went back to the source, the newspaper.

The photo was taken by Maleena Streeval, a former editor, and the caption read:

"Lots of shade — This giant white oak tree dwarfs the many trees surrounding it but it definitely provides lots of shade during the summer months. The tree is believed to be between 700-800 years old. It measures four feet, seven inches through and stands on property off Gum Lick Road, owned by Ray Quaak of Louisville. Standing beside the tree for comparison purposes is Greg Streeval, who stands six feet tall."

Greg Streeval is often at McKinney-Brown Funeral Home right next door to the news office so I spoke with him about the tree's whereabouts. He said I had totally stumped him. He couldn't recall ever visiting the tree and posing for the photo. However, he did know just who would have sent him and Maleena out on such a task. He promised he would get back with me after he went back to his source — Shearl Murphy, a retired postal carrier whom Greg said loves trees and history.

Greg walked into the news office the next day with good news and bad news. He told me he knew exactly where the tree was, but that it was no longer standing. Its former owners from California had cut it and razed a nearby home down to make way for a double-wide.

I was crushed. After days of hunting, making calls, two trips to the deeds room, a trip the PVA office and some searching online, my wild goose hunt for a tree ended. But I'm not about to give up. I know there has to be a tree just as big and beautiful somewhere else in the county.

Greg gave me a couple leads I need to follow up on — he's even promised to stand in as a size comparison again.

If you know of a really old tree or a tree with a story you'd like to share, please give me a call at 787-7171 or email me at acole@caseynews.net. I'd be happy to go on a wild tree chase again.

All school personnel are important

Larry ROWELL
Staff Writer

The presidential race is heating up and GOP presidential candidate Mitt Romney and his newly minted VP candidate Paul Ryan are swinging for the fences, targeting President Barack Obama on the Affordable Care Act and the economy.

Obama has launched his own attack against Romney, citing blunders with Bain Capital, Romney's refusal to release his last five year's tax returns, his Swiss bank accounts, and Ryan's proposed health care fix.

But Romney, not content to remain focused on the issues, has now brought the fight to school bus drivers.

Speaking at a campaign rally in Manassas and Richmond, Virginia, Romney said he believed that school bus drivers, and by extension all other education support personnel, play absolutely no role in student achievement, such as a child making the honor roll.

"I realize to get to school they've got to go on a bus. And the bus driver is driving the bus. But when the student makes the honor roll, I don't credit the bus driver. I credit the kid who got the honor roll."

During his speech, Romney went on to denigrate other categories of public employees.

But what I question is why a presidential candidate would go out of his way to demean the role that education support personnel play in the life of a child?

I fear that he's so rich that he's disconnected from the lives of average Americans and he simply doesn't understand how a school district works.

Can a man who's worth $240 million really understand how life works for the average Casey Countian who manages to live on less than $30,000 a year?

I would tell Mr. Romney there's not a bus driver in the Casey County School District who's not an important part of a student's school career.

In addition, I include a lot of other district personnel in this list of helping children do their best in school.

Not only do we have competent and highly trained bus drivers who genuinely care about the welfare of their passengers, what about the bus garage personnel who service those buses to make sure they're the safest on the county roads and highways?

And once those students arrive safely at school day after day, they enter a school that's been cleaned by custodians who do an outstanding job. A trip into any of our schools gives evidence of the fine work these folks do.

Rooms are cleaned and wiped down so students can learn in a wholesome and disease free environment.

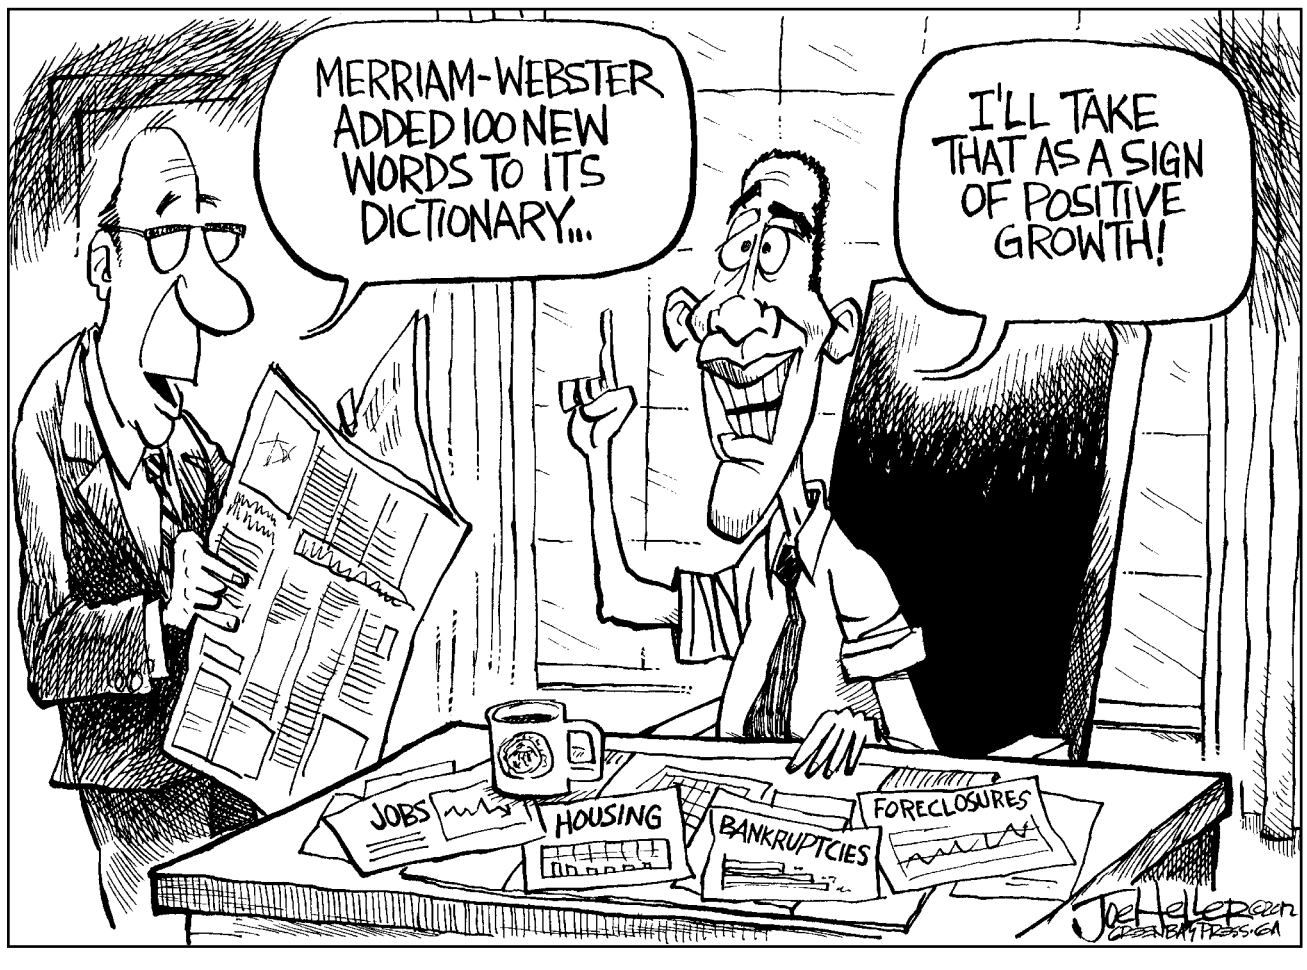

And what about lunch room workers? Every school kitchen that I've been in over the past four years has been spotless. These kitchens consistently draw a 100 percent rating from the health department.

The food is wholesome, tasty and well prepared because a student who is hungry cannot learn. Students can feel the love of the women who cook in these kitchens.

Not wanting to forget anyone but I probably will, there's the classroom aides, school administrative staffs, substitute teachers, and after school personnel who also play an integral part in a student's learning.

Mr. Romney, all these folks matter because they do what they do well.

I invite Mr. Romney to come and see that the Casey School District is a team effort that includes everyone working hard to ensure that students have the proper environment in which to learn from teachers who are committed to shaping young lives into the men and women they should be.

Boy, I haven't seen one of those lately

Joberta WELLS
Columnist

Did you ever have one of those weeks when you saw things you hadn't seen in a long, long time? I had one just recently.

The first thing I saw was a hitchhiker. I haven't seen anyone doing that in ages but there he was, standing on the side of the road with his thumb out. Why don't we see them these days? Is it because everybody has a car or a horse?

There used to be rules for hitchhikers. The first is that you don't try to thumb a ride with a woman driving alone. The second is you don't just stand in one spot; you keep moving. You might get there faster that way. The guy I saw was rooted to the spot and he was trying to thumb a ride with me, a woman alone. No, I didn't pick him up.

I saw a woman the other day who was wearing an old-fashioned sunbonnet like my grandmother used to wear. It was not one of those cute little bonnets you see on our Mennonite ladies, either. It was one that had a brim that came out around her face by about four inches and it had the skirt on the back to keep the sun off her neck. I almost wrecked when I saw her. I was tempted to stop and ask her if she made her own.

Mammy made her own and they were usually all made of some lavender fabric because lavender was her favorite color. The brim was lined and there was some sort of lining in the brim to help it keep its shape (along with some heavy starch). The crown was not lined and if ironed properly, stood up like a rooster tail on the back of her head. There was a drawstring in the skirt that made it fit properly and there were ties so it could be tied under her chin to keep it from blowing off in a high wind. Her Sunday-go-to-meeting sunbonnets had trim around the brim, usually woven zig-zag ribbon.

Mammy had older sunbonnets that she wore every day but they were as starched and pristine as her Sunday sunbonnet. We kids learned early on that you didn't touch Mammy's bonnets! God forbid that you should get a smudge of dirt on them or wrinkle them or make them lose their starch. She would not have thought that was a hoot!

I saw a car I recognized the other day. It was an old Dodge from the late 1960s or early 1970s. I don't know one make of car from another these days because they all look alike. No, that's not true. I do recognize the Volkswagen Beetle and the Plymouth PT Cruiser. The rest of them look like my car and it's a 1997 model.

I remember the days when I recognized every car coming down the road. None of them looked like the next one in line. I can still pick out a 1951 Ford, a 1957 Ford, a Buick Roadmaster, a 1957 Chevy, a Dodge Coronet, 1958 and 1959 Edsels, Studebakers (they looked the same coming and going), the lovely early Mustangs, the lovely early Corvettes, the lovely two-seater Thunderbirds, and a few more. Today all vans look alike, all SUVs look alike, and all sedans look alike. If they don't have their makes fastened to them somewhere and if I'm not up close enough to read them, forget about it.

I saw a man recently make rows in his garden with a vintage bedder plow. In case you never saw one, it has a wheel in front and a single blade or prongs that cut into the earth. It is driven by manpower, not gasoline. I admired him from afar.

Keep your eyes peeled and you might spot something you haven't seen in a long time. Let me know about it.

Fiscal court sets tax rate for 2012-13

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

The Casey County Fiscal Court adopted 2012 property tax rates for the county on Monday, leaving the tax rate the same as last year.

The court accepted the compensating rate of 6.6 cents per $100 of assessed property value, which is the same as the 2011 rate.

The rate of 6.6 cents on real and tangible property is expected to generate $344,848, or $9,560 more than last year's rate. Even though the rate is the same, it will generate slightly more revenue because of increased growth and new property.

Had the court accepted the 4 percent rate increase — assessed on real property only — it would have generated $309,288, a $9,097 increase.

Citing difficult economic times, Judge/Executive Ronald Wright recommended that the court accept the compensating rate, which is the lowest among the three tax rate options.

The court also set a tax rate of 8.5 cents per $100 assessed value for motor vehicles and water craft.

In other business, the court:

■ Approved Treasurer Debbie Vaughn's monthly report, which shows the following fund balances: General, $323,429.72; Road, $1,207,678.31; Jail, $815,805.99; LGEA, $74,671.96; State, $52,092.32; and E-911, $27,309.55.

■ Approved Vaughn's report on the Central Kentucky AG/EXPO Center for July 1 to Aug. 20. Total receipts were $16,166.53 with expenses of $22,322.75, a loss of $6,156.22.

Rental income for the period was $11,704. Repair expenses amounted to just under $9,500 while utilities accounted for slightly more than $6,000.

■ Voted to have County Attorney Tom Weddle represent Property Value Administrator Eric Brown in a response to an appeal to a disputed assessment filed by Crim and Winnie Smith.

■ Accepted for filing purposes only the 2012 tax rates for the hospital board, conservation district, and extension district, all of which accepted the compensating tax rate, the same as last year's rate.

Hospital may close, sale postponed

ADAIR COUNTY — Westlake Hospital's Board of Trustees called off discussions with LifePoint officials about the possible sale of the hospital.

And, according to hospital board chairman James Evans, if the hospital doesn't find a significant revenue source soon, it may have to close.

However, board members are working with county officials seeking short term solutions to keep the hospital open.

County Judge/Executive Ann Melton scheduled a meeting yesterday (Tuesday) to explore ways the board can cut expenses without counting on the county for any financial help, which she says the county doesn't have.

Lifepoint's original offer of $12 million for the debt-strapped hospital was lowered to $2 million, after bringing up five points of concern.

Congressman Ed Whitfield has also entered the discussion, telling Adair County residents recently that he would do everything possible to help the hospital, including checking with the federal government's Health and Human Services and the USDA to see if any monies are available.

The total debt on the hospital is estimated to be $20 million.

Officers investigate local kid's spot, eatery

BOYLE COUNTY — U.S. postal inspectors, along with state and local law enforcement officers, raided a Danville snack café and kid's fun spot on Aug. 15. In addition to entering Go Go Gorillas, officers also went into the home of its owner, Christopher Turner.

The investigation stems from federal fraud allegations in which Turner is suspected of defrauding numerous people in Danville and the surrounding central Kentucky area of several million dollars, said Misty Racimo with the U.S. Postal Inspection Service office in Lexington.

Racimo said Turner had not properly registered to receive investments in the state of Kentucky and is believed to have used funds he sought for Go Go Gorillas and his other businesses for his own use.

Postal inspectors became involved because a part of the alleged fraudulent solicitation of money took place through the U.S. mail, which makes it a federal crime.

Turner, 48, was at home when officers arrived and later volunteered to answer questions at the Danville Police Department. He has not been officially charged or arrested.

Racimo said the case probably will be presented in federal court. Mail fraud can carry a 20-year prison sentence.

High School graduation rates rise

LINCOLN COUNTY — The graduation rate at Lincoln County High School rose by 27 percent from 2010 to 2011, marking a turnaround from having one of the worst rates in the area to one of the best.

LCHS's graduation rate fell to 69.9 percent in 2010, with only Garrard County having a lower rate at 65.3 percent among area high schools.

However, in 2011, LCHS had a graduation rate of 88.8 percent, second only behind Boyle County, which had a 92.1 percent graduation rate.

The higher LCHS rate ranked it 31st in the state, out of 200 high schools.

Possible Turtle Man exhibit

MARION COUNTY — Marion County is working on a new trademark, "The Buckle on the Bourbon Belt," but what people can't seem to get enough of is the Turtleman.

According to Nicky Reynolds, executive director of the Lebanon Tourist and Convention Commission, the Turtleman's fans keep the phones at the tourism office ringing. And people even stop in the tourism office looking for him.

"The No. 1 most requested information is about the Turtleman," Reynolds told the commission during its regular monthly meeting Monday afternoon.

Because of his popularity, the tourism office has offered to help the Marion County Historical Society develop a Turtleman exhibit at the former Marion County Courthouse. The tourism office is also going to put up a small display of its own, with Turtleman memorabilia.

"We feel we need to provide something for his fans," Reynolds said. "One thing he tries to do in every episode is say 'Lebanon, Ky.' His fans just walk in off the street, and we really need something."

Reynolds said she has also spoken to "Team Turtle" about using its mobile display in the exhibit, as well. The historical society hopes to have its exhibit complete by Marion County Country Ham Days, which is the last full weekend in September.

Man alleges brutality by deputy

PULASKI COUNTY — A local man has filed a federal lawsuit against the Pulaski County government stating that he was roughed up by a sheriff's deputy last August.

Kevin McCoy's attorney, Brandon J. Storm of Laurel County, filed the lawsuit last week in U.S. District Court in London.

Named in the lawsuit are Pulaski County Sheriff's Deputy Steve Molen, Pulaski County Sheriff Todd Wood, Pulaski County Judge-executive Barty Bullock and Pulaski Fiscal Court.

McCoy alleges that on Aug. 14, 2011, Molen rammed his motorcycle on Ky. 70, with his cruiser.

In addition, the lawsuit states that an E-911 dispatch audio recording of Molen saying he was "enticed" by McCoy and that the plaintiff was "begging to be chased."

The lawsuit states that Molen used excessive force and performed an unnecessary, totally improper and potentially life-threatening 'pit maneuver' on McCoy, who was on his motorcycle.

After placing handcuffs on McCoy, with no resistance or provocation from McCoy, Molen continued to use excessive force while placing McCoy into the police cruiser, causing McCoy to suffer severe bodily injury, the lawsuit states.

The lawsuit also states that McCoy had to be taken to the hospital for treatment as he was entirely too bloody and injured to be accepted by the Pulaski County Detention Center until he had been cleared by medical professionals.

The lawsuit claims that "the use of excessive force was a substantial factor in causing McCoy to sustain both physical and emotional injury. Some of McCoy's injuries include, but are not limited to: Hand, wrist and shoulder pain; rib and abdominal pain, contusions and swelling; facial pain, swelling, contusions and lacerations; and oral pain, swelling and lacerations."

McCoy is seeking a trial by jury and a monetary judgment.

McCoy was charged with reckless driving, menacing, fleeing or evading the police, driving on a DUI suspended license, no registration plates or receipt and failure to maintain insurance.

'Run With all Your Hart' event a success

RUSSELL COUNTY — An event designed to honor the life of a popular Russell County resident who was allegedly murdered in mid-June in Jamestown has been roundly deemed as a success.

The four-mile race and 1.5 mile walk raised more than $70,000 that goes to a scholarship fund in Sarah Roberts Hart name.

Event organizers said that more then 3,200 people participated in the race, 500 of whom were "virtual" runners from across the state, nation, and from six international countries.

Two teenagers took the top prizes with 16-year-old Nathan Riggs being the top overall male finisher with a time of 21:55 while Alyssa Hyden, 13, was the top female finisher with a time of 27:44.

Court stalls on incinerator

TAYLOR COUNTY — After discussing the issue at three meetings, magistrates still haven't decided whether the county should buy a new incinerator or repair the current one at the Taylor County Animal Shelter.

Instead, magistrates have agreed to contract with a local company to incinerate the Taylor County Animal Shelter's dead animals until a decision can be made. At Tuesday night's regular Taylor County Fiscal Court meeting, representatives from two companies spoke to magistrates about incinerators.

A recent fire damaged the shelter's equipment and it can't be used. Magistrates have discussed the issue at two previous meetings and considered whether to repair the current one or purchase a new one. On Tuesday, Sonny Hall, a Thermotech representative, spoke to magistrates about selling them a new "first rate, tier 1" incinerator.

Hall said his company provides service for its equipment and develops friendships with its customers.

He said the equipment the county owns is "third tier" and needs replacing. His equipment, he said, produces little smoke and meets all regulations.

Hall didn't give a price for his equipment, though at recent meetings, it was discussed that a new incinerator could cost as much as $40,000.

Magistrate Matt Pendleton said he contacted SuperNova Manufacturing Inc., which makes incinerators like the one the county owns, and asked how much it would cost to repair the county's equipment, which was purchased in 2010.

Pendleton said a SuperNova employee told him it would cost about $5,500 to repair the county's equipment.

In the interim, magistrates took a third route in contracting with Mark Antle, owner of A&S Livestock and Feed, to pick up the shelter's animals and incinerate them for $1,000 a month.

Floodplains and Wetlands Early Public Notice
Activity in a 100-Year Floodplain
Gateway Park Concession Stand Construction

To: All interested Agencies, Groups and Individuals

This is to give notice that the Casey County Fiscal Court under 24 CFR Part 58 has conducted an evaluation as required by Executive Order 11988 and/or 11990, in accordance with U.S. Department of Housing and Community Development (HUD) regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C, Procedures for Making Determinations on Floodplain Management, to determine the potential affect that its project in the floodplain and wetland will have on the human environment for the Gateway Park Concession Stand Project under CDBG CERF Grant No. 10-011.

Gateway Park is located at 88 E. Kentucky Highway 70 (south side) to the east of the intersection of Kentucky Highway 127 and Kentucky Highway 70 in the City of Liberty, Casey County, Kentucky.

The new concession building will be a concrete block structure of approximately 1,515 square feet. It will include a food and concessions preparation and serving area, public queuing and serving windows, and handicapped accessible menís and womenís restrooms. The concrete slab on grade structure will be centrally located among the recently reconstructed baseball and softball fields. The building will be located within the 100-year floodplain (FEMA Zone AE) of the adjacent Green River but not within the Green River floodway. The Green River base flood elevations have been determined by FEMA, and according to the FIRM the base flood elevation is 802.25 feet in the vicinity of this project. The proposed concession building is to be raised one (1) foot above the base flood elevation. Earth fill material native to the site and suitable for construction will be compacted in lifts in order to establish the building pad higher than the base flood elevation as well as avoid causing the water surface to rise in a flood event therefore not impacting the 100-year flood elevation of the Green River.

Written comments concerning this project must be received by the Casey County Fiscal Court at the following address on or before September 7, 2012: P.O. Box 306, 625 Courthouse Square, Liberty KY 42539, telephone number (606) 787-8311, Attention: Ronald Wright, Casey County Judge Executive, during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Comments may also be submitted via email at RWright0@windstream.net.

CRP Participants May Request Authorization to Conduct Emergency Haying or Grazing of CRP Acres

The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) announces the opportunity for Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants to request authorization to conduct emergency haying or grazing on specific CRP acres. Eligible producers who are interested in applying for approval to conduct Emergency Haying or Grazing of CRP land located in Kentucky must request and obtain individual written approval from FSA before any haying or grazing starts. Participants will be assessed a 10 percent payment reduction on their annual rental payment for the acres actually hayed or grazed.

Interested CRP participants are required to submit a request to FSA and obtain a modified conservation plan to hay and/or graze under emergency provisions. The same acres may not be hayed and grazed under the same emergency designation. Emergency haying or grazing is not allowed within 120 feet of any stream or water body. Specified portions of each field or contiguous fields must be left or grazed with limited stock for wildlife purposes.

Emergency haying or grazing is restricted to specific practices that are 12 months past being determined as fully established by the agency. Participants shall not start any haying or grazing activity until individual written approval is received for the CRP contract request. Approved haying authorization will end not later than August 31st. Approved grazing authorization will end not later than September 30th.

To take advantage of the emergency haying and grazing provisions, approved participants can use the CRP acreage for their own livestock or may grant another livestock producer use of the CRP acreage for the purpose of haying or grazing.

For more information and to request approval for emergency haying or grazing of CRP acres, contact the local FSA Service Center that administers the CRP contract.

Opportunity for Continuous CRP Enrollment of Highly Erodible Cropland

The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) announced that continuous sign-up for the Highly Erodible Land (HEL) Initiative under the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) started on July 23, 2012. Kentucky received a total allocation of 39,400 acres to enroll in the HELI CRP program. Offers will be accepted until either the state acreage allocation limit is reached or September 30, 2012 whichever occurs first.

This initiative will accept offers with an erosion rate of at least 20 tons per acre per year for new cropland or CRP acres that expire on September 30, 2012; however, existing grass stands that are not considered expiring CRP will not be considered eligible for enrollment. Eligible cropland must also have a history of being cropped 4 out of 6 years, 2002 through 2007.

Eligible CRP contracts set to expire on September 30, 2012, may be offered for consideration and approved contracts will become effective October 1, 2012. The contract duration is also 10 years.

For more information, please contact your local FSA Office or visit http://www.fsa.usda.gov/crp.

Edison lab visit interesting

Originally published in the Aug. 23, 1962 issue of The Casey County News

The Casey County News

We visited the Thomas A. Edison laboratory at Fort Myers, Fla., last week and found it extremely interesting. It was at this plant that the electric light, the storage battery, the motion picture machine, and many others of the 1,097 patented inventions of Edison and his staff were perfected. All but four of his patents are in use today.

Edison became ill before World War I, and was told to seek a warmer climate. He picked Fort Myers, before it was a town other than by name. He came and went on a schooner which called once a month. Henry Ford, one of his former employees, built a home next door. They were also extremely intimate with Harry Firestone of rubber fame.

The 35 acres of ground are planted in every tree and bush imaginable, many of which were experiments of Mr. Edison. His second wife was also exceptionally well skilled with plants, and enjoyed working with them. There are many flowers.

The Edison Laboratory is just as he left it. One is impressed with its simplicity. The vacuum pump for removing air from light bulbs is downright crude, even though it went through several models. The movie machine was invented in a little room about 6x10 feet. His assistants wanted to give up on the storage battery after 9,000 experiments, but Edison told them they now knew 9,000 things that would not work. It took a total of over 40,000 to perfect it, and there have been some changes since then.

Edison worked there for 47 years during the winter months, and died at 87. The laboratory is just as he left it, and is well worth seeing by almost anyone with even ordinary intelligence. Our guide was nothing to brag about, but a book at the desk gives excellent information. We have been in the Everglades and the islands of the Caribbean, and never have we encountered so many nasty mosquitoes. Wear long pants and shirt and bring along a repellent in the summer months. It costs a dollar to make the tour.

Clark graduates from Rogers Scholars program

Casey County High School student Allison Clark graduated from the summer's second class of The Center for Rural Development's 2012 Rogers Scholars youth leadership program.

The Rogers Scholars program provides leadership and exclusive scholarship opportunities for rising high school juniors in Southern and Eastern Kentucky and encourages graduates to build their careers in the region.

The second, and final, summer session of Rogers Scholars was held July 8-13 on the grounds of The Center in Somerset.

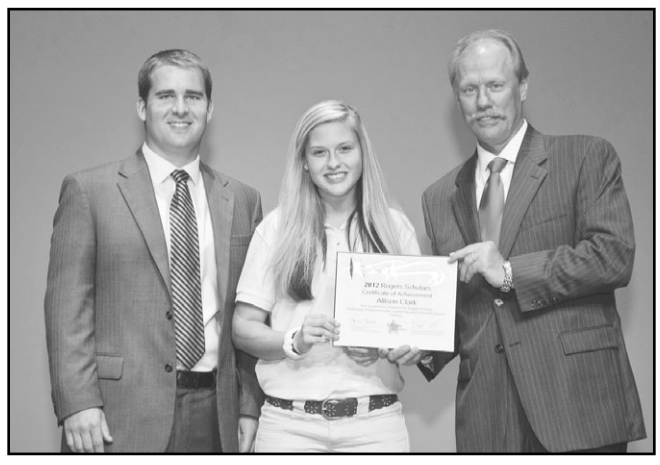

Clark was presented a certificate of completion on the final day of the program during an awards ceremony and graduation program at The Center.

Students apply during their sophomore year and attend the Rogers Scholars program before the start of their junior year in high school.

Clark is the daughter of Steve and Carmela Clark of Liberty.

Graduates of the program also earn access to exclusive college scholarship offers from some of the state's top-ranked colleges and universities.

More nursing students being accepted at WKU

Starting this fall, more students will be accepted into Western Kentucky University's bachelor of science in nursing program.

Mary Bennett, director of the School of Nursing, said the number of openings has been doubled to 80. The school has temporary space designated in Tate Page Hall and has hired four additional faculty members to make the change possible. Four more will be hired next fall.

In the past WKU has turned away about half of the qualified applicants because of a lack of classroom space and faculty.

Bennett had been looking for space to lease when Commonwealth Health Corp. approached WKU with plans for a new building.

The Medical Center-WKU Health Sciences Complex, an $18.4 million facility under construction on the hospital campus, will become the new home for nursing and physical therapy programs in fall 2013. WKU will lease about 80 percent of the building. In the meantime, temporary space became available in Tate Page Hall that will allow the nursing program to expand sooner. In addition, a large classroom in the Academic Complex has been turned into a lab.

Minimum qualifications remain the same, including a 2.75 grade-point average and at least a grade of "C" in all science courses. The 40 additional slots will allow more qualified students to enter the program.

Rebels show strengths despite losing season-opener

The Casey County Rebel football team had an 8-7 lead on the Lincoln County Patriots but failed to stretch the lead in the second quarter. The Rebels lost 34-23.

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

Casey County Rebel football season kicked off Friday at the PBK Bank Death Valley Bowl at Lincoln County High School. The Patriots won their own bowl for the first time in seven seasons, taking down Casey 34-23.

"There was two or three little mental things that maybe if those things hadn't have happened we could have turned the tide," said Coach Sam Marples.

Senior Alex Bollin, who made his name known in the area last season as leading rusher, put up the night's first points with a 77-yard run to the end zone on Casey's third possession at the 1:42 mark.

A two-point conversion by quarterback Wyatt Bishop rounded out the play to give the Rebels an 8-0 lead.

However, the Patriots capitalized on a fumble opportunity during Casey's next possession. Bollin lost control of the ball near the Rebel 30-yard line where Lincoln recovered and put their first points on the board two plays later. With the extra point the score stood 8-7.

The Rebels held off the Patriots for the remainder of the half, but failed to stretch their lead in the second quarter.

Lincoln returned to the second half and wasted no time to obtain their first lead of the game. After a 54-yard kickoff return and three more plays, the Patriots led 14-8.

Casey responded on its next possession with Bishop and Bolin driving the field down to the Lincoln 3. A second touchdown by Bollin with the two-point conversion form Bishop put the Rebels up, 16-14, but it would be their final lead of the game.

The Patriots moved the ball through eight plays once taking over possession, all the way to the Casey 1, where they brought the score to 21-16.

Lincoln would score again early in the fourth quarter before giving Casey a chance to respond.

"It's not always just being able to push your body when you're tired but it's also being able to be mentally focused when you're that tired, "Marples said. "That gets a little harder after four quarters of football."

The Rebels did score once more before the clock ran out. After a 63-yard drive over nine plays, Rance Carman sealed the deal. Kicker Brian Fair tacked on the extra point to bring the score to 28-23.

Lincoln managed a final touchdown for a score of 34-23.

Bolin lead the game in rushing with 185 yards, 20 carries, of the team's 249 rushing yards, 41 carries. The Rebels had 12 first downs and 40 passing yards, totaling 289 yards.

Despite the loss, Marples and the coaching staff saw several signs of strength that shed light on the potential of the Rebels' upcoming games.

"When Lincoln came back and scored two touchdowns in a row, we were playing a lot of young kids," Marples said. "(We) just came back down and scored again to give us a chance to stay in it, so they were able to answer adversity and for (many players') first time being in a varsity football game, that shows a good sign of what we can do in the next couple of weeks."

The Rebels will travel to Taylor County this Friday evening.

VolleyRebs go 4-1 in Boyle Co. Invitational

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

It was an eventful week for the VolleyRebs who fell to Pulaski County in their district opener last Tuesday, but went on to compete in the championship game of the Boyle County Invitational Tournament.

"Our play and movement has picked up," Coach Veronica Sengkhamyong said. "They are playing better together, talking more and they just want it."

The VolleyRebs went 4-1 in the tournament to bring their season record to 5-2.

Boyle County Invitational
Eight teams played in a series of games at Centre College Friday and Saturday as they competed for the Boyle County Invitational title.

The tournament began with two pools of four teams each. Casey played Mercer County, Western Hills and Whitley County to determine their spot in the tournament play.

The VolleyRebs began pool play on Friday evening against Mercer County where they won 21-13, 21-9.

Allison Clark led the team with nine good serves, four aces and three kills. Sarah Beard had 19 sets and Kayla Wilson had the most digs with three.

The team turned around to defeat Western Hills shortly thereafter, 21-13, 21-14.

Clark led in good serves again with 11. She and Shelby Stringer each had five digs, while Stringer also led the team in kills and aces with five and three respectively. Beard had 23 sets.

Saturday morning rounded out pool play where Casey took down Whitley County 21-12, 21-14.

A strong game overall, the team had a total of 41 good serves and only two bad serves. Kaitlyn Todd led with 11 good serves, while also having two aces. Stringer dominated with eight kills and seven digs. Lone setter Beard had 25.

Going 3-0 in their pool sent the VolleyRebs into the Gold Division tournament as a number one seed where they faced district opponent Rockcastle County in the semifinals.

"Rockcastle is in our district and they won (their district) last year," Sengkhamyong said. "They know we are going to be a district title contender."

Casey took down the Lady Rockets 25-13 in the first set, but the second set was not so decisive. The VolleyRebs just topped the opponent, 26-24.

It was Casey against the defending champions of Nelson County in the Gold Division Championship game.

"(Nelson has) three girls that are over 6 feet tall. They are our biggest competition, but they aren't even in our region," Sengkhamyong said.

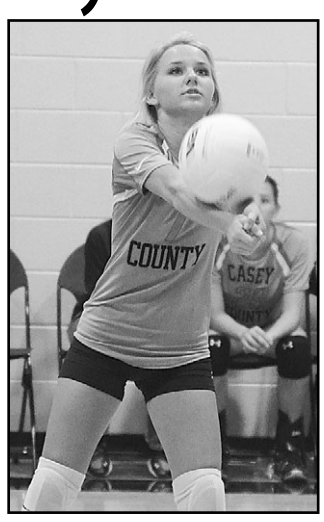

The VolleyRebs played the defending champs close through the first set and came up just short in the end, 25-22. They then fell 25-14 in the second set to take the runner-up title.

vs. Pulaski County
Last Tuesday was the VolleyRebs' first district game as well as their first best-of-five game. District victors are now determined by the best of five sets, rather than three, and Casey was defeated, 25-21, 25-20, 25-17, 25-12.

"Our serving is what killed that game," Sengkhamyong said. "We've got to get more consistent serving."

While the team had a total of 50 good serves through the span of four sets, Beard leading with 15, nine bad serves means nine points they gave up to Pulaski throughout the evening.

Stringer had another strong game, leading the team with 19 digs and eight kills. Beard had two aces, eight digs and 22 sets.

Casey Co. girls' golf team wins first home match

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Rebel golfers competed in two three-team matches last week, where they found themselves finishing in the middle both days. They then kicked off this week with a win over Mercer County at their first home match.

"Over all I'm happy and excited for them," said Coach Sarah Christian. "Everyone is right on track."

Last Tuesday the team competed at Eagle's Nest Country Club against Pulaski County and Lincoln County. Casey's score of 198 was behind Pulaski, who shot 189, but enough to defeat Lincoln's 202.

Laura McQueen shot the lowest score with a 45 and the only sub-50 score.

Natalie McAninch, Emiee Vaughn and Alyx Streeval stair-stepped their scores hitting 50, 51 and 52 respectively. Catherine McAninch and Shelbie Salyers rounded out play with scores of 65 and 73.

The Lady Rebels faced Taylor County and Campbellsville on Thursday at the Campbellsville Country Club. Again, the team experienced a win and a loss. Taylor finished first with 172, followed by Casey's 189. Campbellsville finished at 228.

"Laura was so steady and consistent with her game," Christian said. "The other girls are trying hard to get their game together. One day their putting might be off and the next day it's their drive."

McQueen shot the low score for the Lady Rebels with a 41.

The team defeated Mercer by 42 strokes on Monday, 224-182. Vaughn and McQueen led the charge again, nearly breaking the 40-stroke marke. Vaughn shot 41 and had two birdies while McQueen shot 42 with one birdie.

Natalie McAninch, Streeval, Salyers and Catherine McAninch rounded out the play with scores of 49, 50, 56 and 60 respectively.

Casey Co. boys' golf team continues to work on its game

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Rebel golf team continues to work on their game as they move into a heavy schedule in their short season. The team faced East Jessamine and Boyle County last week and then competed in the Garrard County Invitational Tournament over the weekend.

Justin Russell is leading the Rebel team currently. He shot 41 against East Jessamine and 47 against Boyle.

"Justin Russell's got so much potential. It's there for all of these kids," said Coach Marshall Forbes.

Casey fell short in both matches during the week. Their team score of 199 at home course Hickory Hills Country Club was topped by East Jessamine with 169. They faced Boyle on the road where they were outscored 201-182.

Colton Patterson had the second lowest score against East Jessamine with a 44. Justin Underwood shot 55 and Hayden Bastin shot 59.

Tyler Ammons was unable to finish the match due to an injury that has kept him out to date with the season's future still up in the air.

"He's going back to the doctor. He supposedly strained a ligament," Forbes said and noted that they have not given a 100 percent diagnosis on the injury yet.

Bastin was just behind Russell in the Boyle match on Thursday with a 48. Patterson shot 50 while Underwood and Eric Livengood were 56 and 58 respectively.

Fourteen teams competed at Dix River Country Club last Saturday in the Garrard County Invitational 18-hole tournament. The team placed 13th, with a score of 383, just behind Mercer County who shot 372.

"The one thing we are trying to instill in these kids right now is to play from hole to hole," said Forbes. "They have one bad shot and it carries over for three or four holes."

Russell and Patterson led the team, each shooting 88. Underwood followed with the only other sub-100 score, 93. Bastin and Livengood each shot 114.

"We're going to be all right," said Forbe. "The good thing is we have a future."

Casey hosted Russell County at home last night and will travel back to Dix River to face Lincoln County tomorrow.

All-Stars place at state

Accidents

Lane was traveling west on Slate Hill Road — a gravel road — at about 40-45 miles per hour when he lost control on the loose gravel in a curve and went into a ditch before traveling up an embankment, the traffic report states.

After attempting to regain control and steering back toward the roadway, Lane hit a tree and was ejected from the 4-wheeler.

He was airlifted by Air Evac to the University of Kentucky Hospital with life threatening injuries. Lane was not wearing a helmet.

Saturday, Aug. 18

At 4:53 p.m. on U.S. 127, about five miles south of Liberty, Joseph Wooley, 39, of 377 Allen Creek Road, Liberty, was operating a 1990 Camry when he turned into the path of a 2003 Harley Davidson motorcycle being operated by Darin Powell, 33, of Columbia, according to a KSP press release. Powell was ejected from his bike.

Wooley's passenger Michael Wells, 50, of Liberty, and Powell were both flown to University of Kentucky Hospital.

On Monday, Wells was in fair condition at UK. Attempts to determine Powell's medical condition were unsuccessful.

Wooley was arrested at the scene and charged with second offense driving under the influence of alcohol/drugs and operating on suspended operators license. According to court records, Wooley stated that he had taken a Loratab, smoked marijuana and drank alcoholic beverages prior to operating the vehicle.

Wooley was also arrested on Aug. 1 for driving under the influence and pleaded guilty on Aug. 2 in Casey County District Court. He is being held at the Casey County Detention Center on a $25,000 cash bond.

Wednesday, Aug. 15

At 12:59 p.m., Justin R. Brewster, 24, of 100 Napier St., Liberty, and a passenger, Adam Ford, 19, of Debbie Lane, Liberty, were traveling north on U.S. 127 in Brewster's 1998 green Ford Ranger when Brewster started to turn right onto Ky. 817, then decided to turn left into the Roadside Park.

James E. Lane, 26, of 184 Country Drive, Hustonville, who was following behind Brewster in a 2005 GM Sierra pickup truck, hit the Ranger in the left side, causing it to roll onto the passenger side, the police report states. Brewster and Lane were able to crawl out of the driver's window and were taken to Casey County Hospital. All three were wearing seat belts.

Tuesday, Aug. 14

At 4:03 p.m., Roy C. Edwards, 32, of 1259 Sharp Road, Liberty, was traveling north on Dry Ridge Road when he lost control in a curve and crossed the center line, striking the driver's side door of a 2011 Dodge Journey operated by Brian K. Taylor, 34, of 456 Bowman Trail, Liberty, according to a police report. Taylor was taken by ambulance to Casey County Hospital. Both vehicles received moderate to severe damage. Edwards and Taylor were wearing seat belts. Environmental factors listed included a slippery surface due to rain.

Monday, Aug. 13

At 12:51 p.m., Casey B. Wheeler, 36, of 2901 Hammonsville Road, Munfordville, was attempting to turn left off Ky. 817 in his black 2000 Ford F250 and did not see Freeman J. Robinson, 79, of 1613 N. Wallace Wilkinson Blvd., Liberty, turning left off Ky. 70, the traffic report states. Wheeler started to pull out and hit Robinson's 2000 Chevy S10.

Robinson was taken to Casey County Hospital for minor injuries. A passenger in Freeman's vehicle, Betty Robinson, was not injured. Neither wore a seat belt, the accident report stated.

Among the traffic reports obtained, inattention was a factor in three accidents, along with turning improperly and not being under proper control. Environmental factors can also play a role.

"Probably some of the factors would be the increase in rain lately," said Sheriff Jerry Coffman. "I did a couple accidents where weather conditions were factors."

According to Coffman and Liberty Police Chief Steven Garrett, inattention can include several things — following too close, looking off the roadway, talking on a cell phone, texting, or eating and drinking while driving.

"They could be not paying attention or driving too fast for conditions of the road," Coffman said. "They may be going the speed limit but it's still too fast with a wet road. With some of these roads, you need to take into consideration the curves, inclines and different things."

The Liberty Police Department will be increasing enforcement on safety violations to try to put a dent in the number of wrecks, Garrett said. Over the new few weeks, officers will be conducting various safety checkpoints.

"It seems like there have been more wrecks this year than there usually is," Garrett said. "I'm not sure what the reason is, but we are going to increase our efforts and see if that helps any. We'd like to see (Liberty) a little safer place to drive for everybody around here."

Coffman would like to remind drivers that deer will be on the move as fall approaches and to take their time when traveling.

"Just use good common sense and slow down," Coffman said. "There's nothing worth getting hurt or hurting someone else over."

Boyle County couple indicted for burglary

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A Boyle County couple accused of theft, burglary, and attempted burglary have been indicted by a Casey County grand jury.

Jason D. Brummett and Cherish Paige Rogers, of 451 West Main St., Danville, were each indicted on counts of second-degree criminal attempt to commit burglary, second-degree burglary, and theft by unlawful taking over $500.

The charges stem from allegations that on July 9, the two tried to enter Danny Lee's residence.

A week later, on July 26, the pair also are charged with entering Kenny Clements' residence and taking jars of change, jewelry, cash, and other items, the indictment states.

The grand jury also indicted eight others on Monday.

■ Jerold Scott Waddle, 37, faces charges that working with Celesta Lee Waddle, the pair manufactured methamphetamine. Jerold is also charged with first-degree fleeing or evading the police, driving under the influence of alcohol/drugs, driving on a DUI suspended license, and careless driving. He also faces two counts of first-degree being a persistent felony offender.

■ Celesta Lee Waddle, 44, is charged with first offense manufacturing meth along with Jerold Waddle.

■ Glen Clay Naylor, 40, was indicted for manufacturing meth. Naylor was arrested on July 9 for having in his possession two or more chemicals and two or more items used to make meth.

■ Chad Daniel Atwood, 34, was also indicted for manufacturing meth. Atwood was arrested on July 12 for having in his possession two or more chemicals and two or more items used to make meth.

■ Robert William Frazier, 38, faces charges of first offense planting, cultivating, or harvesting more than five plants of marijuana on July 6.

■ Justin C. Bastin, 34, was indicted on two counts of third-degree burglary and two counts of theft by unlawful taking, over $500. Bastin is accused of entering a building owned by Clarence Hensley on July 24 and taking a power take-off shaft, a wood busting mall and wedge, hay hook, chain, and other items.

Bastin is also charged in a second burglary where he allegedly entered a building owned by Melissa Shoemaker — sometime from May 1 to July 20 — and took numerous metal barrels, corn grinder, metal milk cans, truck tool box, and other items.

■ Rachael Renae West, 23, was indicted for three counts of second-degree criminal possession of a forged instrument. The indictment states that from July 13-15, West passed three checks on the account of Richard or Pamela West at Farmer's Deposit Bank in the amount of $247.55 to Crockett Trail General Store, Dairy Mart, and S & T Grocery.

■ Jalen Leonard Estioko, 20, was indicted on a charge of third-degree assault from an incident on July 26 when he allegedly assaulted Casey County Deputy Jailer Greg Means.

County include Vice-Chairman Betty Lou Weddle, Secretary Craig Overstreet, Treasurer Marvetta Overstreet, and Youth Chairman Adam Ellison.

Representing Adair County are Chairman Brandon Thompson, Vice-Chairman Tiffany Kessler, Secretary Pam Yarberry, Treasurer Gale Cowan, and Youth Chairman Shannon Rowe.

The qualifications to run for Commonwealth's Attorney include a residency requirement of one year in the county in addition to having been a practicing attorney for four years, Wethington said.

When asked if any candidates from Casey County were considered, Wethington said that Liberty Attorney Don Thomas' name came up but the committee was of the opinion that Thomas didn't meet the residency requirement.

In addition, Wethington wasn't certain that anyone had spoken with Thomas to confirm that Thomas hadn't lived in Casey County long enough to fulfill the one-year requirement.

Thomas declined to comment on Tuesday morning.

Williams, contacted as he returned from vacation in Florida, said that he is happy to be the party's nominee.

"I'm honored to be considered for this job. I will work hard for the people of Adair and Casey counties," Williams said.

Williams has practiced law since 1995 and was a Kentucky State Trooper for 26 years. He ran unsuccessfully against Judge Weddle in 2006.

But one thing both Williams and Thompson stressed — equal representation for both counties.

"Brian Wright served the people of Adair County well. Neither county in our meeting last night was interested in being self-seeking. We wanted the best candidate for both counties," Thompson said.

Williams echoed Thompson in pledging equality for all people in the district.

"A person should be able to walk into the courthouse and receive fair and equal treatment," he said.

News Briefs

Reusser pretrial postponed

Jason Reusser appeared with defense attorney Philip George in Casey County Circuit Court on Monday before Special Judge Doughlas George.

Attorney George said that forensic tests from a computer that authorities seized on a search warrant from Reusser's home on Sloans Fork Road in Windsor, as well as DNA tests from other evidence, haven't been completed.
